

Phi Beta Honorees Tinged With Interest

• A MARRIED COUPLE, a taxi driver, and students from Norway, China, and Canada, are among the 20 University students who have been elected to membership in Phi Beta Kappa, national honor society recognizing "outstanding intellectual capacity well employed" in the field of liberal arts and sciences. Those chosen are:

James Carey Maupin, received his BA degree in Political Science, November 1951, and is now enrolled in the University Law School while employed by the U. S. Displaced Persons Commission. He was president of his senior class at Herbert Hoover High School, Glendale, California, and was a member of the Debating Team at the university.

His wife, Ann Maury Maupin, was also selected. Active in campus activities, she was named in Who's Who in American Universities; is a member of Tassels, sophomore honorary; Delphi, sorority honorary; on the Cherry Tree staff; rush chairman of Kappa Alpha Theta; and president of Oquassa, women's athletic organization.

Mr. and Mrs. Maupin met while taking the same classes. They (See PHI BETES, Page 2)

U. S. Grant To Dedicate Chapin Hall

• DEDICATION ceremonies for Chapin Hall, the Air Force's newly renovated headquarters at the University, will be held Friday, 11:30 a.m.

Maj. Gen. Ulysses S. Grant, III, retired, and former vice-president of the University, will preside over the ceremony. Air Force big brass and University dignitaries will be received by an AFROTC cadet honor guard and music will be furnished by the band.

Open House, to be held from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m., in Chapin Hall, will feature many exhibits and historic relics of air history. For example, the 1903 engine and propeller of the Wright Brothers plane will be on display; also early bomb sights, air-sea rescue equipment, weather, service, clothing equipment, and communications aids. Many special electrically operated exhibits which demonstrate the operation of various intricate equipment will also be on hand.

The purpose of the dedication is to interest parents and students in AFROTC, and for the community to familiarize itself with the purposes of the Air Force. Cadets will be on hand for exhibit information.

Accrediting Groups Open Meeting Here

• THE FIRST general membership meeting of the National Commission on Accrediting, which has been in existence less than two years, is to be held at The University, Lisner Auditorium, today in conjunction with the annual meeting of the Association of American Colleges. The AAC conference opens today and continues through Thursday at the Hotel Statler.

University presidents, chancellors, deans and other administrative officers from all parts of the country will be in attendance at 10 a.m., Tuesday, when the National Commission on Accrediting sessions open with an address by the Commission's president; Chancellor Reuben G. Gustafson of the University of Nebraska. His subject is: "An Introduction and a History of the Relationship of University and College Organizations to Accrediting Agencies."

President Cloyd H. Marvin of the University, secretary of the Commission, will speak on "The National Commission on Accrediting at Work." The third morning speaker will be President J. Hillis Miller of the University of Florida. His subject: "How Institutions Improve Themselves."

The afternoon session at 2 p.m. will be a symposium with President John R. Emens of Ball State

Vandenberg Urges More Manpower

• A PROPOSAL to increase the "combat strength of the Air Force by 50% with no more than 20% increase in personnel" was presented by General Hoyt S. Vandenberg, Chief of Staff, United States Air Force, as he gave an address of welcome to the first Air Force Commanders' Course in Air Force Manpower Management at the University.

The class of 100, addressed by General Vandenberg, consists of two brigadier generals, 45 colonels, and 53 lieutenant colonels. The course will last four weeks, and is the first of four planned at the University exclusively for Air Force commanders. Four six-week courses have recently been given to Air Force officers and civilian personnel.

In remarking on why the course is given at the University, General Vandenberg said: "Inasmuch as under our democratic system the military must be continuously accountable to the civilian authority for the use it makes of the national substance, it seemed to us only wise and proper that you should repair to the most reputable civilian authorities for your standards of economical and efficient management."

Through application of the principles reviewed in these courses, it is hoped to increase the strength of the Air Force sufficiently to insure the security of our nation, General Vandenberg stated.

The course covers the major areas of orientation, the national manpower situation, management, and manpower utilization. Through these studies, the Air Force commanders will gain an understanding of the national manpower situation and will receive an intensive review of the principles of management, organization, human relations, executive development, and communications.

General Vandenberg was introduced by Joe L. Jessup, assistant dean of the School of Government.

Teachers College presiding. Participants in this discussion will be President Paul C. Rehnert of St. Louis University, President Deane W. Malott of Cornell University, President David D. Henry of Wayne University, and Chancellor R. H. Fitzgerald of the University of Pittsburgh.

Constituent members of the Commission are: Association of American Colleges, Association of American Universities, Associations of Land-Grant Colleges and Universities, Association of Urban Universities, National Association of State Universities, American Association of Junior Colleges, and the Association of Teacher-Education Institutions. Its membership is expected to number more than 1200 colleges and universities.

Its constitution reads, in part, as follows: "In order to eliminate the objectionable practices and policies of accrediting agencies and at the same time to preserve their contribution to higher education, the seven associations have sponsored and authorized the National Commission on Accrediting."

Israel Minister, Hall Start 'Israel-Middle East Series'

• DAVID GOITEIN, Minister Plenipotentiary at the Israel Embassy, and Harvey Hall, director of publications of the Middle East Institute, will discuss "Israel and the Middle East," tomorrow, 8:30 p.m., Hillel House, 2129 F St., N.W.

This is the first in a series of talks on Israel and the Middle East, sponsored by the B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation, the World Government Club, and Intercollegiate Zionist Federation of America at the University.

Goitein has recently arrived in the United States to serve as Minister Plenipotentiary at the Israeli Embassy and deputy to the Ambassador, Mr. Abba Eban.

Previous Appointments

Goitein's previous appointment was as Israel minister to the Union of South Africa. He was appointed to that post in July, 1950 when the Israel Consulate General in that country was elevated to a legation. Before that Mr. Goitein occupied the position of Israel Consul General in South Africa, an appointment he took in August, 1949.

The new minister was born in London. He graduated from the University of London with an honors degree in science, but later took up law. He was a member of the Middle Temple and practiced law in London from 1924 to 1929.

Serves As Editor

He settled in Jerusalem in 1929, as editor of the "Palestine Bulletin." In 1931 he resumed his law practice, becoming one of the most prominent barristers in the country.

Harvey Hall was born in Lebanon. His father was a professor at American University in Beirut. He received his BA from Union College, Schenectady, New York, and his MA from Harvard.

Middle East Expert

From 1936 to 1941 he taught English at Roberts College, Istanbul, Turkey. Hall also worked in research and analysis in OSS from 1941 to 1945, and in the State Department, 1945-46. Policy and Information Department for the Near East.

At present he teaches government and politics of the Middle East at this University. Mr. Hall has also served as director of publications for the Middle Eastern Institute which publishes the Middle Eastern Journal, from 1941 to date.

Holt Receives Schiff Prize

• JAMES H. HOLT received third prize this month in The Jacob R. Schiff Memorial Awards Contest, sponsored by Standard Factors Corporation of New York City. The prize of $100 was awarded Mr. Holt for his essay, "The Case for Accounts Receivable Financing."

Awards were made to college students who, in a nationwide contest, submitted the best manuscripts on accounts-receivable financing and factoring. First prize of $500 went to Marvin E. Golleb, Northwestern University, and the second prize of $250 to Thomas J. Kenney, Jr., San Jose State College. Three honorable mention awards of $50 each were also made.

The awards were established by the Standard Factors Corporation as a memorial to Jacob R. Schiff, the late financier-philanthropist. Mr. Schiff left a trust fund of $2,500,000 for educational and philanthropic purposes to be allocated in such a manner as "to further the ideals of American democracy."

Glee Clubbers Serenade Servicemen, Icelanders

By TOM WOJTKOWSKI

• EVEN A MIDNIGHT arrival is not unusual for the University Travelling Troubadors as they settled their great C-54 on the wind-swept stretches of Iceland during the Christmas vacation.

Duty bound to entertain American military personnel in this remote insular province, while you rushed around for those last-minute gifts and spent the holiday at home, these hardy singers were skipping around the various military installations to bring cheer and good will to the many who wouldn't be home for the Christmas season.

Newfoundland by Lunchtime Leaving Washington early Thursday morning for Westover Field, Massachusetts, the winging singers flew to Stephenville, Newfoundland, for a quick lunch before hopping off to Massey Air Force Base, Keflavik, Iceland.

The International Airport at Keflavik, where planes of British Overseas Airways, Air France, and others land, is situated near the town of Keflavik, about 2200 people, where the group stayed in the best hotel, "completely modern," they said. Friday night they put on their first performance for the Army at Camp Geek. This group was the Tennessee National Guard stationed there, and were entertained by a two-hour popular music show.

Saturday morning's bus ride by the singers to Reykjavik, 35 miles away, gave them a chance to see the lava fields and also Hekla, a still active lava bed, which last erupted in 1947. The weather there is quite cold, temperature averaging about 27 degrees. Terrific winds, ranging up to 120 miles buffet the island constantly. It snows frequently but the strong winds keep blowing it away, and the vertical snowfall amazed many.

Shopping in Reykjavik

Shopping in Reykjavik's many small stores, the group found prices a little cheaper than in the United States, especially on jewelry. Hardware stores were conspicuously rare, but book stores and record shops were numerous. Iceland is 100 per cent literate and books are read by everyone. American records are extremely popular, especially with the young people. Current top tune is "Beautiful, Beautiful Brown Eyes."

Hot springs abound all over the island and the hot water, volcanically heated in the infernal depths of the earth is piped to all homes, no one has individual heating units or stoves. Even the side walks are always clear because hot pipes under the surface keep the snow and rain evaporated. As one walks along, his feet get warmer not colder, as in conventional U. S. Not much daylight greeted the sightseers, it was 11 a.m. before the sun rose and right after lunch it was already dusk, the sun setting at about 2 p.m.

Good roads were few outside the capital city of Reykjavik, but connecting links were satisfactory. Many American cars are seen but everybody drives on the left hand side of the road.

Two Shows a Day

Saturday the singers entertained the sailors from a navy oiler, and also sang Christmas carols, that afternoon, in the air terminal at Keflavik for transient guests. That night at Massey, they performed their second popular show before an audience of over 1000 persons.

Chapel services Sunday morning, 10:30 a.m., previewed the flight line welcome that afternoon of Keflavik's "Christmas Mother." Chaplain Hans Sandrock conducted a letter survey of the men's mothers and Sgt. Harry Butler, of (See GLEE CLUB, Page 3)

Terre Haute, Indiana, won. His prize was the presence of his mother. The Air Force flew her to Iceland to spend the holiday with her son. The Troubadors welcomed her with "Back Home in Indiana."

Messiah Sunday Night

Sunday evening was the performance of the "Messiah" at Massey Air Force Base. Anne Bresinski, Joanne Winslow, Ethel Johnson, Ted Lynch, Charles Rhoades, Bob Anderson, and John Parker were soloists. Mrs. Harmon was the accompanist. Returning from Massey that evening in a blinding snow storm, the bus went off the road and stranded the singers.

On Monday, the group returned to Geek Army Theatre for a Christmas eve performance of the "Messiah." The choristers visited the NCO Club that evening and also sang at candlelight services at the Protestant chapel.

Christmas day chapel services were followed by a sumptuous dinner: turkey, puddings, and all the trimmings. In the afternoon the group split into the quintet and a trio to entertain the 22 men in the isolated radio transmitter 8 miles away. Also in the afternoon they sang for the hospital patients and two NCO Clubs.

Women Prove Popular

That evening at Massey, a reception was held for the three base commanders, Army, Navy, and Air Force. All military personnel were invited, and danced to recordings in a huge quonset hut. The women were especially popular.

Lutherans Predominate

Late that afternoon, the troubadours put on a premier performance for the Icelandic Choral Society in the Free Lutheran Church. 99 per cent of Icelanders are Lutherans. The singers gave some popular selections and excerpts from the "Messiah."

The Bishop of Iceland entertained a small group of singers Friday afternoon; also visited were a professor of the law school, and the Dean of the University of Iceland. At 6 p.m. the American Legation held open house for them and also in the evening a banquet and dance in the Sol Restaurant in Reykjavik given by the Choral Society. Each member of the Traveling Troubadors received a personally engraved book of Iceland, and an inscribed gold medal from the Choral Society of Iceland. The group received an Icelandic flag which will be displayed in the library here.

The weary troubadours returned to Washington last Sunday with "many hopes for a return visit to do a correlated show with them and sing with them again," as Gwynn Perce, manager, put it.

Hillel

H. Rowland Ludden, professor of political science at the University, will be moderator of the program. Both speakers will discuss Israel's present policy in the Middle East, and her relationship in the United Nations today. Discussion from the audience will follow the speakers.

Rabbi Aaron Seidman, director of Hillel, announced that all students of the University and other surrounding campuses are invited to listen to the speakers and participate in the discussion.

State Offers New Jobs

• OPPORTUNITIES FOR permanent positions with the California state government are offered civil engineering seniors at the University, the California State Personnel Board announced today.

Sharpener Lack Starts Crusade

• WALK through Buildings A, B, and D, Government, Pharmacy School, and Lisner Auditorium any day looking for a pencil sharpener and sure enough you will not find one. Alpha Theta Nu, honorary for scholarship holders, discovered that there weren't any in the above mentioned places with only one in the library and two in Stockton Hall. As a result of their survey it is suggested that one sharpener be placed on the first floor in Buildings A, B, and the Pharmacy School; and one for every floor in Buildings C, D, Government, and Stockton Hall.

Ellen Mac Ewen, president of Alpha Theta Nu, in releasing the survey said, "We are now hoping that the need will be so evident that university officials will follow this report through and supply the school with a few sharpeners."

A civil service examination will be held March 1 on a nationwide basis for Junior Civil Engineers. Facilities have been set up to give the examination on or near this campus. Applications must be filed by February 2.

The Junior Civil Engineer class in California starts at $325 a month and there are annual increases up to $376. Capable men, however, advance to more highly paid positions by promotional examinations.

Seniors may qualify for the California positions while still on the campus, but must submit evidence of graduation or its equivalent before actual appointment.

Mimeographed descriptions of the examination and application forms are available from the campus placement officer or the State Personnel Board, Sacramento 14, California.

Gala Shipwreck Ball Buccaneers Crowd

• THE PIKA's celebrate it as usual at the annual Shipwreck Ball last Saturday night.

• GALA AND FESTIVE was the atmosphere surrounding the 14th annual Shipwreck Ball sponsored by Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity in the Silver Spring Armory. As the Ball was well attended by university students, all of whom were invited, there was no extra space anywhere, a contributing factor to the air of congeniality characterizing the whole affair.

The evening was highlighted at midnight, when Bill Scarrow announced that Connie Dyre-son had been chosen as this year's Pi Kappa Alpha Shipwreck queen. She was then crowned by the costumed president, Bud Goglin, whose cannibal attire, or lack of attire was most intriguingly set off by a fancy headress measuring, conservatively speaking, about three feet in length and three-quarters of a foot in diameter.

The raffle drawing produced three lucky winners of prizes mentioned in descending order: a case of Seagram's whiskey, Prof. Donald Kline of Art School; a tail monkey complete with cage, second prize, Al Graziano; and an Indian blanket, third prize, J. M. Farria.

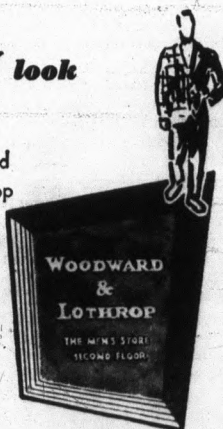

The orchestra then gave a rousing rendition of Happy Birthday for Joanne Spalding, former Shipwreck queen, and the gayety continued until 1 a.m. when the party goers grudgingly left.

Misquote Causes Talk

• ONE OF THE FOUNDATION stones of journalism is accuracy. Several Washington metropolitan newspapers seem to have overlooked this precept in reporting certain events recently revolving around the Hatchet and Coach Reinhart of the basketball squad.

The unsigned "Interview with Mr. X" which appeared in the December 11 Hatchet and in which several players criticised the judgment of Coach Reinhart occasioned comments from downtown papers, several of which blatantly announced that the story was written by Hatchet sports editor Buddy Wolfe and that the story was responsible for the removal of certain players from the team on the day of the basketball game with Duke December 21. Coach Reinhart himself denied this, declaring that he released the players so that they might go home for Christmas vacation. Obviously the newspapers carrying these incorrect reports had not bothered to check with the coach.

Moreover, several of the players who were released from the squad had not even been mentioned in the now famous "Interview with Mr. X." The following week's "Interview" explained that it was not the intention of the article to criticize Coach Reinhart's handling of the team, but rather to present readers with various viewpoints about the basketball team from qualified observers. This remark was not carried by the downtown papers. On the other hand, Coach Reinhart's announcement that he does not need to go to the school newspaper to select his starting lineup was given great play.

Why certain papers chose to handle the story in such an inaccurate fashion is a mystery. That they did so, however, is unfortunate. The Hatchet can only remind its readers and the Washington dailies that in order to get accurate information about the Hatchet one must read the Hatchet.

Additional Leadership

• TODAY the still young National Commission on Accrediting will be meeting in Lisner Auditorium for a convention which is to continue through Thursday. President Marvin, secretary of the commission, will present an address as will other outstanding members of the organization. This convention, an important one in the life of this valuable group, indicates once again the leadership the University has taken in work with accrediting agencies.

Students may well be proud of the important role the University has played in formation and clarification of the duties of accrediting agencies. We can look forward to additional leadership on the part of the University in the future.

Pencil Sharpeners

• THE LACK OF PENCIL sharpeners, reported in the Alpha Theta Nu survey on page three of this issue, has brought new emphasis to an old problem, a problem that has been discussed in classes and informal groups as far back as the most venerable member of the University can remember. And this new emphasis is a sorely needed one, since most of the informal discussions never get beyond the informal stage.

Students are notorious users of the pencil sharpener. Students use sharpeners for everything from inspiration to simply sharpening a pencil. By now everybody must know that the University has provided very few. It's time for some more sharpeners. How about it?

'Mr. X' Draws Comment

To the Editors:

• One of the first requisites learned by all aspiring newspaper men is to keep a story within the limits of known facts. Speculation is left to editors and columnists and even then is not brought out disguised as factual elements in a story.

Your paper's treatment of the George Washington University basketball team and its criticism of the coaching struck me as being unfair to Coach Bill Reinhart, who, incidentally, is also a member of the GW family.

As a sportswriter on The Star with more than five years experience, I read the story on the GW-Virginia game, which I covered for The Star, with disgust. The interview with the so-called "Mr. X" left me with little respect for "Mr. X" or the interviewer, both of whom hid behind the cowardly cloak of anonymity.

I write here, however, not as a representative of The Star, but as a student of GW. I attend the school on a part-time basis and make this protest as a student-basketball fan.

It seems to me in this era of high-pressure on coaches and the accent on winning teams, too many persons are forgetting that the coach is also an instructor in a school and as such is entitled to the respect of his students, be they basketball players or reporters for the school paper. The school paper, in my opinion, should be one of the coach's most dependable defenders.

I saw the GW-Virginia game and saw nothing wrong with the way Mr. Reinhart conducted GW's play. Even if there were room for suspicion, it must remain in the category of suspicion and not smeared all over the school paper as factual.

In conclusion, I never did like anonymous criticism. There is something cowardly about it. So unlike The Hatchet's reporter of the game, the interviewer and "Mr. X," I hereby sign my name, proudly and unembarrassed.

Disagreement Brings Up Activities Fee

To the Editors:

• With no intention of belittling their motives, I would like to comment on the letter by 31 fraternity members which appeared in the December 18 Hatchet. If there is any disagreement between their point of view and mine, it is only that I think they are being shortsighted in their approach to The Hatchet's limited space for sports.

Some background information is necessary to indicate just what is the matter with the size of the newspaper. Let me remind the sports-minded correspondents of the 1950-51 student activities budget. This budget was rather a shock to many students concerned with "living" within the budget. For instance, the $1000 Homecoming Revolving Fund was eliminated; the Student Handbook was eliminated; appropriations for the Band were sliced. More pertinent to this letter was the $3500 bite in The Hatchet's budget.

In practical terms, this meant that the fixed costs of production could not be met without reducing the size of The Hatchet. As I remember, the 1950-51 Hatchet published 16 8-page issues out of a total of 26. The previous year's Hatchet had averaged 12-page issues and much more art. As recently as 1947, 24-page Hatchets were possible.

During the first semester (fall, 1950), The Hatchet was critical of the situation; editorials stated that although a smaller paper is easier to put out in terms of staff effort, it severely penalizes all aspects, or censure. The Hatchet repeated the perennial hope for a Student Activities Fee which would sustain activities in a more businesslike way than the current hat-in-hand attitude which is forced upon activities which rely on the University grants.

The Hatchet answered, it thought, several administration arguments against such a fee; it suggested that the fee need not be discriminatory against part-time students and that it would not place a large fund in the hands of students without University supervision. The only argument that The Hatchet could not combat was basic; the students show no interest in having a fee.

I'm not slamming anyone when I say that The Hatchet has declined with its smaller space. In like manner, the University Players can't be judged by any real standards when they can afford only a two-night run. The Cherry Tree can never attain the size and mechanical finish it needs to be successful. Until an activities fee is achieved, the student body largely deserves what it gets—including Chesterfield cigarettes on the sports page.

The tone of the letter in question—asking for a "real newspaper"—is laudable, but I wonder if the indignance would have been expressed if the editorial page had suffered from a large advertisement. Somehow, I don't think so. It appears that editorials are read seldom, if ever, at this University.

Very sincerely,
Donald W. Lief

A New Tale

And now, for the benefit of the anthropologists in our audience, we present a special feature. No doubt those of our readers who patronize the Hearst press will recognize, if they lift their brows from their presently rather low altitude, the scene of the following effusion as that of High Society. You see, the writer of this visited New York during the Christmas holidays and, while there, was informed by a couple of his friends that they had found, in a Greenwich Village phone booth, an invitation to a party at a local nitery known to the gang as El Morocco. Yes, the El Morocco. Never one to hide my light under a bushel, I donned my best rags and off we went, undeterred by the fact that the invitation was addressed to a reporter on one of the New York papers. Since I suspect, however, that the motive of the management in inviting the above mentioned toiler in the journalistic vineyard was not unmingled with self-interest, the here humbly submitted report on the proceedings should satisfy any desire they might in the future feel for appearing in print.

The party, needless to say, was a huge success. I will not waste my poor talent in describing the richness of the food, the excellence of the many rare vintages offered nor, above all else, the superlative glamor and sophistication of the assembled mob. Here then, instead, are a few tidbits my outstretched ears managed to catch, above the hubbub of food and drink being gobbled down as fast as finger and gullet allowed.

Scintillating Party

In one corner, ensconced behind an imitation gardenia and hills of glamorous showgirls, two Hollywood producers were discussing their coming opus, a screen adaptation of our own Nephets Suark's "On a Traffic Island with You." For this nickelodeon offering they apparently contemplate bringing to the screen that famous pair of Broadway thespians, Alfred Lung and Lynn "Soda" Fountaine. Naused beyond repair I moved on, and was soon eavesdropping on the monologue of a famous radio columnist, female, whose first name I will change here to Dardanelle. Adopting her radio technique, she gushed, "My first exclusive. Dear friends, I want to be the first in Hollywood to bring you news of a great new talent right here in the movie capital. His name is William Shakespeare, and he has just written the script for Orson Welles' latest picture, "Othello." Such freshness of approach, such vigor, such . . . well, I will tell you what I said to Doc at the preview. Leaning across Orson, which is no mean feat, I said, Doc wake up. I shook him awake and he said, no more for the third, the results are coming in now. Dear Doc, he always agrees with me. "Well, I think I can safely predict a great future for young William . . ." At this point, a waiter who was serving fried press agents to the guests since the toasted halvah bits had run out, interrupted her and said, "But Dardanelle, William Shakespeare is dead." Recovering magnificently from this foul blow the famous woman replied, "Friends, I want to be the first to bring you the news of the death, in the bloom of his career, of William Shakespeare, what a blow to the industry."

Frankly, at this point quite surfeited with High Society and gagging with fried press agents, who are awfully hard to take on my three year old stomach, I exited, carrying with me a wisp of the aroma of the Old South. However, she soon recovered, and, switching to coffee in a nearby Nedrick's revealed herself to be Nephets Suark himself, a man who will sink to any depths to crash a party of this type. Adieu.

'52' Jobs In Industry Available

• AN OPEN NEW YEAR'S LETTER TO JOB SEEKERS IN 1952

Frozen Government Jobs: Except for very strategic jobs most of which involve high level skill, government jobs will continue to be frozen especially at the level that new college graduates desire. Grades 7 and below will require a civil service rating or status. Stenographers and engineers however will continue to be in demand no matter what.

Good Opportunities in Private Industry: Although salaries are a little lower than for government jobs, advancement is fast and according to ability. Industries which will expand fast in 1952 are shipbuilding, oil, aircraft, mining, machine tool, precision instruments, lumbering, optical instrument, foundry, and electronic.

Looking for a major? Professional fields much in demand are engineering, physics, geophysics, medical technology, medicine, dentistry, nursing, teaching (grade school), clinical psychology (Ph.D. only), social work, library science, pharmacy, and accounting (in excess before Korea). Ask to see the new OCCUPATIONAL OUTLOOK HANDBOOK for other suggestions at the placement offices.

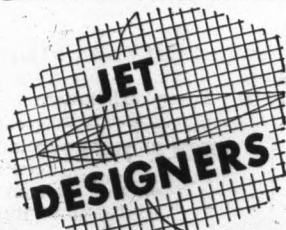

Thinking of Going to Graduate School? Come in and examine the file on graduate assistantships and fellowships. The deadline for applications is traditionally March 1.

Want a Summer Camp Job? Plan now. Ask to see our file on literature and application forms. For career positions come in and make an appointment to see the recruiter from the Girl Scouts who will be here March 10.

Office Hours: Along with this reorganization some thought has been given to the possibility of changing the hours for service to students from morning to afternoon. In order to expedite the gathering data to present this may be done, I shall be glad to receive delegations from any academic or professional interests groups who wish to express an opinion. Appointments may be had by calling extension 364.

Student Union Bulletin Board: Do you know where it is? Look for the sign: "SO YOU'RE LOOKING FOR A JOB." To help you form the habit of looking there, I am not listing any jobs here today but here's a tip. There are four good jobs posted there paying over $3000. Sometimes for lack of space this column is cut and it might be the very job you want. So cultivate the habit of looking both places. Good job hunting in '52.

All Work, No Play Makes A Starr; Buff Beauty Student Attempts Double Enrollment

By Irving Shapiro

• COLLEGE STUDENTS, ATTENTION! Are you up to your ears in work? Is your nose so close to the grindstone, you're forced to breathe through a shnorkel tube? If you think you have it tough, don't complain, cause you ain't heard nothin' yet.

According to an A.P. news story there's a fellow down in Memphis, Tennessee that was not only burning the candle at both ends, he was lighting the middle too.

Relieved From School

Husky, black-haired Bob Starr has been given the heave-ho by Memphis State College—but not for the usual reasons. College authorities were beginning to fear that Starr would soon blow his top.

The youthful World War II veteran flunked no courses and played no college pranks. Life just moved too slow for the hot-rod student.

Simultaneous Enrollment

He was simultaneously: Enrolled in both Memphis State and Southwestern College, carrying 18 hours at the former and 17 hours at the latter, and making top grades.

Sports editor of both college annuals.

Columnist on both college newspapers.

Sunday night news editor for a newspaper wire service.

Sports writer (prep basketball games) for the Memphis Commercial Appeal.

Prospective author of a novel, based on psychological stress, already fully outlined.

Played intramural basketball at Southwestern.

Father of Two Children

Astonished Memphis State officials told Starr such occurrences were contrary to college policy. For some reason Starr never asked why. State's faculty discovered Starr's double quest for knowledge when he talked over prospects for his wife's enrollment.

Forced to choose, the demon picked Southwestern which he attends under the GI Bill of Rights. He was paying his way through Memphis State.

Thirst for Knowledge

How did he get in to both colleges? "Well there was no question on the registration blanks asking if I also was attending another college, I didn't volunteer the information."

Starr now hums "Time On My Hands" while glumly contemplating his enforced leisure. "I've got to find something to do on Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday now that I've left Memphis State. I'll go crazy with all that time..."

This is a typical week-day schedule during Starr's old active days:

7:55 a.m. Rise and shine.

8:30-9:30—Greek at Southwestern.

10:30-11—Chapel at Southwestern (compulsory).

11 to noon—French at Southwestern.

12 to 1 p.m.—Southwestern to Memphis state, via motorcycle; then lunch.

1-2—Business law at Memphis State.

2:30-3—Mythology at State.

3-3:30—State to Hodge Field to cover junior high school football game for newspaper.

5-6—Write story.

6-7—Home for dinner.

8-8:30—Work on sports column for State newspaper "The Tiger Rag" or prepare weekly current events for the "Southwesterner."

8:30-9—Line up next day's schedule.

9-Midnight—Study, chat with wife, play with kids.

Now Mac, what was it about that "heavy load" you think you're carrying?

Bar Association Shows Films; Students Plan Arts Ball

• SQUARE DANCE Thursday 8:30 p.m., Building J. The New England Contra Dances will be taught by Karl Edler. Everyone is invited.

• THE STUDENT BAR Association will show films dealing with Congress, the Supreme Court, and The White House, Thursday, Room 10, Stockton Hall, 1 p.m. and 7:45 p.m. Admission is open to the entire student body.

• WASHINGTON CITY RHO Chapter of Sigma Alpha Epsilon wishes to announce the initiation of Ward Fulmer.

• THE NEWMAN CLUB invites all its members to attend a business meeting 8:30 tonight, D-205. Next Tuesday night Rev. Ignatius Smith will speak.

• ALL STUDENTS interested in sponsoring a Beaux Arts Ball in March meet in third floor lounge Student Union today, 12:30 p.m., to organize and make plans.

• THE FUTURE TEACHERS of America, will show a motion picture, 8 p.m. Thursday, Woodhull House. Following the meeting the group will participate in a square dance in Building J.

• A TOUR OF THE Goodwill Industries will be the feature of the faculty women's club monthly meeting Friday in the Goodwill Industries building, 1222 New Hampshire Avenue, N. W.

• ALL STUDENTS planning to take the National Teachers Examinations, which will be administered at the University in February, are urged to send in their applications before January 16.

Museum Lends Dragon Rugs

• THE UNIVERSITY Library will have an exhibition of Caucasian Dragon and Related Embroideries, lent by The Textile Museum of Washington, this month.

Seven dragon rugs from the Caucasus of the 17th and 18th centuries, the largest single group of the type in America, will be exhibited, together with 12 embroideries showing a relation to the Caucasian rugs. Dragon rugs hold a unique place in the history of Oriental rugmaking as their origin has been the subject of controversy for more than fifty years.

The exhibition is the first in a series of annual loan exhibitions to the University Library from The Museum, which is a storehouse of some of the world's most precious ancient textiles, and the only museum in America dedicated solely to textiles.

• The PiKas really threw the party of the year Saturday night at their 13th annual Shipwreck Ball. Even had real monkeys, one real one and several hundred human ones. It was quite difficult to recognize anyone due to the grease paint and costumes but several just couldn't hide themselves from the crowd. Jinx Smith was last seen playing basketball with the grease paint on. Bill Scarrow and Bud Goglin seemed a bit flustered when they discovered that the winner of the monkey lived in New Jersey. Tom Parrot, Phi Sigma Kappa, and Roger Choicer, Kappa Sigma, had a fine time playing cops and robbers with their water pistols. Carolyn Wood, PiPhi, Judy Stuart, Chi O, and Don Harmer, SN, were all dressed for a travelling minstrel show by the looks of their blacked faces. Pat Frankhouser, PiPhi, had a wonderful time roller skating on her imaginary skates.

The Christmas season, as usual, brought on a flurry of pinnings, engagements, and marriages. (Due to Christmas spirit?) To lead off: Jane Almy, Zeta Tau Alpha, married during the holidays to Lt. Jim McMath, USMC, Lambda Chi from the University of South Carolina. Joyce Johnson, ZTA, received a ring from Ray Omberly, Florida State University. Jane Almy hasn't gotten used to her married name yet, she's ZTA's publicity director and submitted the above and signed it with her maiden name, Bea Hamlin, Sigma Kappa, is engaged to Ted Holm, U. S. Army. "That was a nice Xmas present." Marv Skloot, TEP, is pinned to Joan Eisenberg from the District. ADPI's celebrated at a gala Christmas party where they learned of the engagements of Ferne Fletcher to Jack Kenealy, SPE from the University of Oklahoma, and Janet Mosman to Joe Jernigan, Sig Ep. at G.W. Rosemary Niner, Delta Zeta, sporting a shiny diamond from Armand Estes, PIKA. Marcia Chipman, past DZ prexy, safe in the care of Woody Hough of V.P.I. after a hollyberry wedding.

Pi Phi Caroline Brown engaged to Lee Mourning. Pi Phi Carlene Parker goes on Record as having the shortest pinning on record—two days. SAE Pledge Dave Hall engaged to ????? George (SAE) and Peggy (KAT) Rich expecting. That was quite an engagement party Warren Hull, SAE, and Ellen Ingersoll, KAT, had the other night, poetry and all. Anita Porro and Tom Pinch took that fatal step on Dec. 23, in Mt. Vernon, New York. Jennie DiCaprio was the quivering Maid of Honor but all had a fine time even tho' Joanne Petruska failed to catch the Bride's bouquet.

KD Ginny Perrott is still lugging around her sheepskin rug—the one she acquired in Iceland. After 5 buzzes and 7 fizzes, Rex Saunders, Sigma Chi pledge, was crowned sweetheart of Sigma Kappa with a pink derby. The Pi Phi's held an Open House on Sunday, Dec. 23, at Sandra Seebring's. A large attendance helped get the Christmas party season off to a good start in spite of the icy weather.

Delta Tau Delta sipped coffee with the Delta Zeta's inside the coral door shortly before Christmas. The DZ's also square danced, ate spaghetti and blasted out with Indian signs in an eight hour exchange with the Kappa Sigs. Pete Cordelli, SAE, back to town with his wife for a short visit. "Judge" Hugh Wood, SAE, now serving in the Navy. Mike Kitsoulis "playing it casual?" The Zeta's dined and danced Saturday night at their annual Pledge dinner dance held at the Army-Navy Country Club. Outgoing TEP Chancellor Ted "Armin" Keil is looking forward to the expiration of his Chancellorship in February. Ted says he needs a rest because his duties have been so damaging on his time and energy. The "brothers" say he needs a rest because of the TEP National Convention in Atlantic City at New Year's, which Ted attended, was so demanding—on energy?

An interesting twosome at the Hull-Ingersoll party was George Rawnsley and Carol Noonan. Another amazing feature was Bill Smith soloing it.

Well, off we go to our studies—yes, that what we said—it "ain't" so long til exams, kiddies.

Low Scores Mark Fraternity Play

PHI ALPHA AND SAE, the highest scoring teams in fraternity play as of now, will meet this Sunday with first place in League B going to the winner.

The low scores that typified Sunday's play were evident in the games involving AEPI and Theta Delta Chi, both of which failed to score in double figures in Sunday's contest. The only team to ring up a large score was SAE which amassed 42 points in routing Sigma Nu. The results of Sunday's games follow.

League A

PIKA, 26—Sigma Chi, 24
PIKA took over first place in League A after squeezing by Sigma Chi by two points in a rough and tumble game.

Each club put on a terrific exhibition of defense in the first quarter which ended with Sigma Chi in front 4-2. It was five minutes before Andy Davis scored PIKA's first point on a foul shot. Both clubs began to hit in the second quarter as the defenses relaxed a little. But the Pikes still had to wait until two and a half minutes had ticked off the clock in the second quarter for Andy D. to score their first field goal of the game. After that Andy was unstoppable as he scored all of PIKA's points in the second frame and ten of the eleven which they made in the first half. In the third quarter PIKA went ahead 19-16 to lead for the first time in the game. Sigma Chi staged a rally in the closing minutes of the game and held the ball with the score 26-24, PIKA, and 15 seconds left, but couldn't score.

Andy D. was the game's high scorer with 14 points while John Caldwell had 7 for Sigma Chi.

DTD, 28—Phi Sig, 17

The playing of George Koutras struck a sharp blow to the title hopes of Phi Sig. Koutras had been the key man in past games. But DTD had no easy time of it even though they were on top all the way.

Both teams came up with tight defenses which held down the scoring. The first period ended in a 4-4 tie. Midway through the second quarter, the Delt's slowly began to pull away. The rebounding was almost even with DTD having the edge. Ed Glover did a good job for Phi Sig taking off many rebounds. Leading DTD to their triumph was Chuck Clark with 11 points.

League B

Phi Alpha, 32—TEP, 18

Phi Alpha jumped off to a 4-2 lead over the TEP men and were never headed thereafter. TEP stayed within five points until the fourth period, but then as they started to tire, Phi Alpha pulled away with Bob Goldstein netting 8 of his 16 points. Neither was able to control the boards and it was Phi Alpha's accurate shooting that gave them the win. On the other hand, TEP could make only 10 points in the last three periods.

High for TEP was Norm Alpher with 7 points. Goldstein's 16 points were high for the day and gave him a total of 27 points in two games to make him leading scorer in fraternity play.

SAE, 42—Sigma Nu, 11

SAE ran an undermanned Sigma Nu team into the boards as they rolled up the season's highest team total. The small, but fast SAE team used the fast break to good advantage as they sunk lay-up after lay-up. The game quickly turned into a rout after the first few minutes. Joe Logan collected 14 points to lead SAE and close behind him were Bill Shaw and Ned Harrison with 11 and 9 points, respectively.

League C

Kappa Sig, 27—Theta Delta Chi, 6

Completely outclassing Theta Delt, Kappa Sig rolled to their second win in as many games. Kappa Sig's attack was just too much for the Theta Delt. Before many minutes had gone by in the first period, it was evident that Kappa Sig was not to be stopped. By the end of the third period they held an 18-4 lead. Big man for Kappa Sig was Steadman with 10.

Kappa Sig earlier this week defeated AEPI.

TKE, 16—AEPI, 9

In the day's lowest scoring game, TKE and AEPI could collect only 11 field goals between them. TKE missed all of their six foul shots. AEPI did little better. The Tekes' height was the big factor in their win as they took the ball off both boards. Jack Lewis, last week's high scorer, scored only 2 points as Bill Gray dunked six points to be high. AEPI was only able to muster five men for the game.

Swim Meet Date Reset For Friday

• ORIGINALLY scheduled for Sunday the All-U swimming meet will be held Friday, 8 p.m., at the Y. M. C. A. swimming pool, intramural director Joe Krupa announced.

Individuals and groups interested in taking part in the swimming meet are requested to turn in their filled-out blanks immediately, Mr. Krupa said. Forms for competition are currently available in the intramural activities office, Student Union Office Building.

I. F. A. C. Ruling

Due to a recent I. F. A. C. ruling members of the now disbanded varsity swimming team will be eligible to compete in this swimming meet. Intramural rules also permit participation by former varsity members since these athletes have no other opportunity to swim in competition with others.

At least five entrants as a minimum will be required before a group may compete for the team title. Place winners will be selected on a basis of time made from all heats and sections.

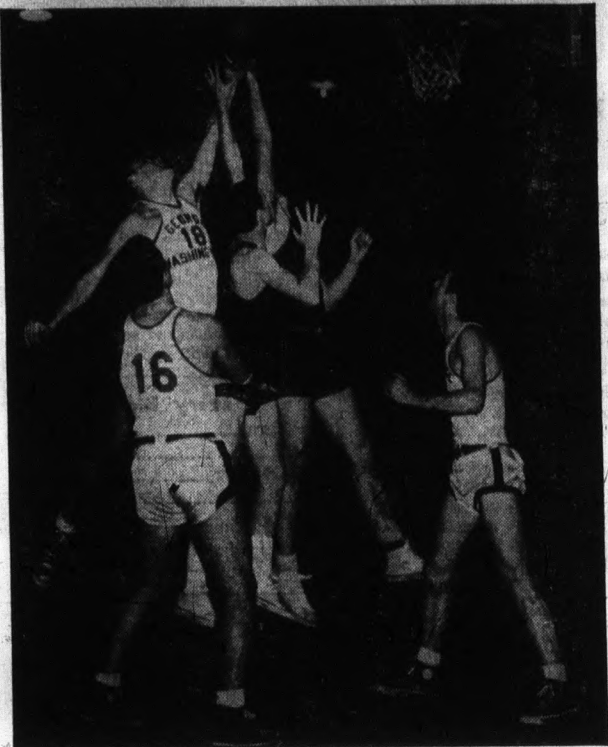

Events Offering Awards

The following events will offer intramural awards: 50 yard free style; 100 yard free style; 200 yard free style; 100 yard backstroke; 50 yard backstroke; 100 yard breaststroke; 50 yard breaststroke; 200 yard free style relay (4 swimmers) 150 yard medley relay (3 swimmers—50 yards back, breaststroke and free style.)

Individuals may compete in no more than two events and one relay. The Official Swimming Guide for 1951-52 will govern the meet in addition to such rules as are inaugurated by the Intramural Department.

ARCHIE TOLIS (No. 18) of the Colonials pulls in one of 17 rebounds he garnered Friday night against Wake Forest. Other Buff players are Elliot Karver and Ed Catino.

Spiders

the Deacons or as an integral method of play for the Colonials, future games will reveal. The new defensive technique calls for loose man-to-man defense coupled with the dropping-back of the small men to help out on the boards. The system paid off well against Wake Forest, which was unable to hit from the outside.

Right Five Still Lacking

Offensive play now emphasizes the opening up of the middle and both big men (Archie Tolis and John Holup) did not go into the pivot often. Reinhart is still faced with the problem of selecting a five that will click consistently. Just when it seems he has the right combination one or more of the starting group loses the touch. When and if Reinhart does hit on the right five the Colonials will start to throw their weight around.

Attendance at the games thus far has been surprisingly poor, an unusual situation for a customarily enthusiastic basketball following.

With The Women

This 'n' That

By BEV BICKNELL

• THE BASKETBALL tournament for the inter-class teams of freshman, sophomore, junior and senior women will begin the latter part of this month.

Valerie Tinkham, bowling manager, is practicing with a bowling team of ten girls for the National Inter-collegiate Telegraphic Duck Pin February tournament.

Tennis and Bowling enthusiasts are urged to come out for practice with the respective clubs. The tennis club meets every Wednesday, 3:15 p.m., despite the cold weather for workouts, on the Hains Point Courts. Mondays from 3:15 p.m. to 5 p.m., the bowling club meets at the Y. M. C. A.

The Women's Activities Building Fund's first project of the year is to sponsor a play at the Arena Theater in February. The Women's Recreation Association is the first organization to support this project.

Kappa Alpha Theta won the inter-sorority bridge tournament.

J. Paul Shеды* Switched to Wildroot Cream-Oil Because He Flunked The Finger-Nail Test

NONE of the girls were wild about this Wildcat. His hair looked like something the cat dragged in! "I'm feline mighty low," he told his Paw. "Every Tomcat, Dick and Harry on campus has dates but me!" "Yes, Siam aware of that, son. You need Wildroot Cream-Oil hair tonic. All the cats are using it because it's non-alcoholic. Contains soothing Lanolin. Relieves annoying dryness. Removes loose, ugly dandruff. Help you puss—I mean pass the Finger-Nail Test." So Paul got Wildroot Cream-Oil, and now he's the most popular Persian at school. Purr-haps it's what you need! Take some small change out of your kitty and pussy-foot it to the nearest drug or toilet goods counter for a bottle or tube of Wildroot Cream-Oil. And ask for professional applications at your favorite barber shop. Hurry—meow is the time!

VMI is Third Contest's Game of Week, Finalist's Picks Not Accurate

• THE THIRD FINALIST in the University Hatchet Basketball Contest is Norman Schwartz who qualified by coming closest to the actual score of the Duke game Friday night at Uline.

This week students can try their skill at picking the final score of the game with VMI to be played at Lexington Saturday. To enter this week's contest it is not necessary to have entered previously as each week is a separate contest to choose a finalist. All finalists will compete for the $5 prize by predicting the score of the Colonial-Georgetown game March 7.

Each week the score most nearly correct is chosen, although in some cases it may not be too close to the fact. Best try so far is within 6 points of the actual score.

This week's winner missed the 98-76 Duke victory by 33 points.

All it takes to enter is to fill out the entry blank and drop it in the contest box in the Union or in the Sports Editor's mail box in the Hatchet office. All entries should include your name, address, phone number and scores predicted. Good luck!

- Contest Rules
1. Entries will be judged solely from the standpoint of closeness to actual scores. Selections of winners and losers is not important. In case of ties, those involved all qualify for the run off.
 2. A contestant may enter the contest as often as he desires but may submit only one entry for each specified game.
 3. Entries must be turned in by 3 p.m. the day of the designated game. Write legibly.
 4. Winning any one of the specified games qualifies a contestant for competition with other weekly winners in guessing the score of the Colonial-Georgetown game, March 7.

Gridders Play State

North Carolina State's football schedule, released last week, lists the Colonials among nine other opponents.

N. C. State is a member of the Southern Conference.

Buff Play Spiders Before Hitting Road

• THE COLONIAL BASKETEERS will be getting into the soft part of their Southern Conference schedule this week when they tangle with four loop opponents. The Buff will be seeking a follow-up to their decisive win over Wake Forest against Richmond tonight at Uline arena. Game time is 8:30 p.m. with the fraternity preliminary starting at 7 p.m.

Fans interested in streaks will have something to think about tonight since the Spiders have never beaten a GW basketball team. The Colonial skein of victories stands at eleven.

Play Three On Road

The cagers take to the road to play three games following tonight's tilt and will return next week for the first of their two games against Georgetown. The road trip includes contests with William and Mary, V.M.I. and V.P.I. none of whom are particularly potent. However, most Conference games, especially those on the road are usually tough.

In Friday night's game against the Deacons the Buff showed what they can do once they get the upper hand in a ball game. Off to a quick 16-5 first quarter lead, the Colonials wound up on the long end of a 90-63 score. The victory, though it showed the Colonials to advantage in a one sided game, was not a startling one in that Wake Forest had been beaten eight times previously in the still young season. Nevertheless there were a number of bright spots in the game that would indicate the team will be ready for the toughies.

Rebounding Good

The most noticeable difference in the Colonial attack was their offensive rebounding. The result of this fine backboard work, which was augmented by a sound passing game, was that GW had far more shots than the Deacons.

Elliot Karver, the jumbo guard who registered 18 points, displayed the type of basketball that was expected from him earlier in the season. For the most part Elliot was loose out on the court, not pressing as he had been doing in previous games and was therefore able to play a vastly improved floor game. Though he was not particularly hot in his shooting he followed up nicely, so if he missed the first he'd hit on the second.

Tolis Getting Better

Once again the big rebounder for the team was Archie Tolis. Archie is becoming more polished with each succeeding game and looks like anything but a freshman ballplayer. Against Wake Forest, Easy Arch tallied 15 points without calling attention to himself. His fine lead-passes paved the way for numerous fast breaks.

Pitted against a team of average size, Johnny Holup turned in another good performance. A greater variety of shots would undoubtedly make John a dangerous man against any ball club, however, he still is consistently effective against most teams. Aggressive under the offensive boards, Holup wound up with 17 points that included eight field goals.

Five Buff players in all hit for double figures with Ed, "the Cat," Catino getting 13 and Tex Silverman 10.

For Wake Forest Dick Hemric was the big troublemaker, netting

20 points to lead all scorers. Hemric fouled out early in the second half, but while he was in he made it plain that he was the Deacon's only offensive threat.

Fans Wanted 90 Mark

Going into the final two minutes of the game the Buff had scored 89 points and fans were imploring them to hit the 90 mark. Half a dozen shots teetered on the rim and fell out and two foul shots were missed in these closing seconds before Ernie Ortiz made a foul shot in the final three seconds. The point had nothing to do with the outcome of the game but the fans were pleased nonetheless.

The win brought the Colonial's season record to three wins and two losses. For the Deacons it was their ninth loss as against only four wins.

Next Few Games Light

The next four or five games offer the Colonials a chance to get fat before they tangle with some of their rougher opponents. Of their next five games the only team that should offer stiff opposition is William and Mary. The Indians have a number of veterans returning this year who could give the Colonials a run for their money. Last year the Buff were forced into an overtime in their home victory against the Virginians. Bill Chambers, high-scoring forward, and Joe Agee, clever guard, are the outstanding performers for William and Mary again this season.

This season the Buff should be able to cope with the height problem posed by the tall Indian team in view of such rebound stalwarts as Archie Tolis (6'5½"), John Holup (6'5"), and Bud Goglin (6'3"), and reserves Bob Edenbaum (6'3") and Bob MacDonald (6'5").

VMI, VPI Easy Games

Both VMI and VPI have been beaten frequently and soundly this season and should not prove to be stumbling blocks to the Colonials. In the Wake Forest game it seemed that Coach Reinhart was employing both new defensive and offensive strategy. Whether these tactics were devised primarily for

Davis Stars in Final Grid Tilt

• ANDY DAVIS played his final collegiate football game in the same fashion as he did many of his games with the University grid team.

Playing with the South Team in the annual Blue-Gray football contest, Davis was an important cog in his team's upset victory over the North by a score of 20-6 during the holidays. Davis intercepted a North pass in his own end zone in the second half stopping a Yankee thrust that threatened to narrow the South's margin.

Handy Andy was also on the receiving end (unusual for him) of a 63 yard aerial which, however, did not result in a touchdown.

The North-South game is a traditional competition between outstanding senior members of northern and southern colleges, oftentimes a player's last chance to compete in collegiate football.

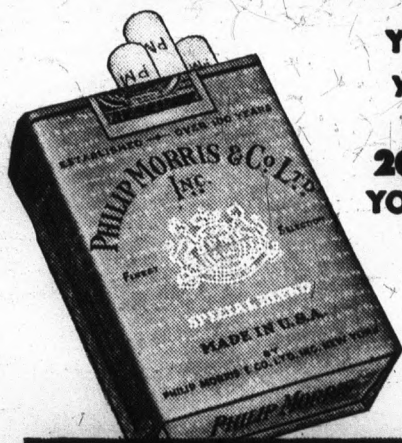

Not Under Fire

• THE HATCHET ANNOUNCES the resignation of sports editor Buddy Wolfe. Wolfe's resignation was in no way precipitated by recent incidents connected with the column appearing on the sports pages entitled An Interview With Mr. X.
